

The Loss of a Loved One

When you lose someone, who was always there,
It seems the pressure is too much to bear.
The sadness is expressed in tears of sorrow,
You just don't know how you'll face tomorrow.

The pain of what was wrench at your heart,
Because it hurts so much when our love ones depart.
But there are words of hope that will come your way,
These will help you through each day.

For God will always stand by your side,
He is ever near whatever the tide.
And when you think you cannot cope,
God will fill your heart with new hope.

When you can't walk, He will carry you,
When you cannot speak, He'll speak out of the blue.
Know that He'll shield you with His love,
And send it in abundance from up above.

So, in his presence He'll give you strength,
And speak to you comfortably at great length.
He'll shelter you in his protective arms,
Then you'll have no need for alarm.

For God is in control, at all times,
Even when sad news the billows betide.
For He knows our end from our beginning,
And with him we will keep on winning.

Your loved one is safe now and ran their race,
And God will sustain you by his grace.
For your work here still remains undone,
Look ahead now and see the battles you've won!
